

Letter to the Editor, WISCONSIN STATE JOURNAL, May 24, 2009

Consider adjacent land values, quality of life

Regarding your wind farm editorial, I am in favor of the state setting standards for the placement of wind turbines, provided that two things are given due consideration:

- The quality of life of those living near the placements.
- The impact on land values at and near the placement sites.

My son-in-law is involved with this same question in Illinois, and his property is in danger of being devalued.

-- Gerald McConoughey, Richland Center